THE FIRST VOLUME IN APPLETONS' WORLD SERIES

Britain and the British Seas

By H. J. MACKINDER, M.A., Student of Christ Church, Reader in Geography in the University of Oxford, Principal of Reading College, editor of Appletons' World Series, or The Regions of the World. With numerous Maps and Diagrams. 8vo. Cloth, $2.00 net; postage, 20 cts. additional.

Each volume in this most important new Series presents a great region of the world. The volumes picture these regions as stages of human action, and they illustrate the relations of man to the grand features of physical geography.

The first book is by the editor, one of the best equipped geographers in Great Britain. It is a broad, comprehensive review of the position of Britain and the characteristics of the British seas; the structure of the islands, their physical history, weather, climates, racial and historical geography, etc.

Appletons' Latin Dictionary

Revised by J. R. V. MARCHANT, M.A., Wadham College, Oxford, and JOSEPH F. CHARLES, B.A., City of London School, formerly Merton College, Oxford. 122d thousand, edition of 1901. Crown 8vo. Cloth, $1.50

Prepared especially for students of classical Latin; hence, a large number of archaic or post Augustan words have been omitted. It is a sufficient commendation to say that in the revision the Dictionary of Professor Georges has been followed.

A ROMANCE OF THE WOODS

The Strength of the Weak

A Novel. By CHAUNCEY C. HOTCHKISS, author of "Betsy Ross," "In Defiance of the King," etc. 12mo. Cloth, $1.50.

The delightful outdoor quality of Mr. Hotchkiss's novel forms a charming accompaniment to the adventurous happenings of the romance. The situation of an English youth holding a seigniory in Canada at the beginning of the French and Indian wars provides a variety of dramatic incident.

FIVE NEW BOOKS

IN FEBRUARY

Anticipations

By H. G. WELLS

Author of "The Invisible Man," "The War of the Worlds," etc.

This is Mr. Wells' first serious study, apart from fiction, based on his wide experience in scientific research. In the light of present scientific knowledge he forecasts world-life—society, morals, business conditions, trade, etc. —one hundred years hence. A brilliant book, that in spite of possible disagreement will compel thought.

Our Presidents

By

Col. A. K. McCLURE

A new and revised edition of this great work is now in press. It is valuable, not only from its interesting store of personal reminiscence, but as a complete history of the way we select and put in office our chief national executives.

Illustrated. $2 00

The Siege of Lady Resolute

By HARRIS DICKSON

Author of "The Black Wolf's Breed"

A romance that will prove one of the big successes of the new year. It is a love story, with scenes in France and America during the reign of Louis XIV.

$1 50

How to Get Strong

By WILLIAM BLAIKIE

This is a book of practical hints for everybody about the best kind of healthful every-day exercise. President Roosevelt writes to the author: "I owe a great deal to your writings for they have been among the causes that made me realize the importance of proper bodily development."

New and Enlarged Edition. $1 00 Net

Cecil Rhodes

By HOWARD HENSMAN

The history of the wonderful career of Cecil Rhodes is the history of the past fifty years of the English commercial invasion of South Africa. The author tells the story most entertainingly from a personal acquaintance with the great characters and events of the time.

NOTES IN SEASON.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY have just ready "Tales of the Spanish Main," by Mowbray Morris, a series of historical descriptions illustrated with good pictures. The book contains a good map and a list of the principal books in the English language treating of the discovery and early history of Spanish America.

THE POPULAR PUBLISHING COMPANY, New York City, has just issued "Songs and Ballads of Ireland," a repository of ancient songs and ballads, comprising patriotic, descriptive, historical and humorous gems, characteristic of the Irish race, compiled and arranged by Manus O'Connor. The music of many of the songs is also given.

C. M. CLARK PUBLISHING CO. will have ready in February "Hester Blair," by William Henry Carson, the story of a sweet and lovable girl of great originality of character. The publishers predict a sale equal to the phenomenal successes of "Quincy Adams Sawyer" and "Blennerhassett." In May they will issue "Miss Petticoats," also destined to be a seller.

HARPER & BROTHERS will publish in February "Anticipations," by H. G. Wells, a serious study based on wide scientific research; "How to Get Strong," by William Blaikie, in a new and enlarged edition; a second edition of "Our Presidents," by A. K. McClure; "Cecil Rhodes," by Howard Hensman; and "The Siege of Lady Resolute," a story of the time of Louis XIV., by Harris Dickson.

D. APPLETON & CO. publish to-day "Britain and the British Seas," by H. J. Mackinder, of Oxford University, the initial volume in Appletons' World Series. The author is editor of the series and is counted one of the best equipped geographers of Great Britain. They have also ready Appletons' "Latin Dictionary," revised by J. R. V. Marchant and Joseph F. Charles; and "The Strength of the Weak," a novel by Chauncey C. Hotchkiss, author of "Betsy Ross."

F. A. STOKES CO. have just ready a new story by Frances Hodgson Burnett, "The Methods of Lady Walderhurst," in which the gentle heroine of "The Making of a Marchioness" is shown in a web of plotting and conspiracy that makes a thrilling story; "Wolfville Days," a volume of tales of Western frontier life, by Alfred Henry Lewis, giving fresh aspects of the adventurous and primitive existence so brilliantly described in his "Wolfville;" and "The Giant's Gate," a dramatic novel of modern French and English life, by Max Pemberton.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY have in active preparation for early issue "The Giant Fish of Florida," by J. Turner Turner, an account of experiences, illustrated with many remarkable photographic reproductions of fish in action; "The Sectional Struggle," by C. W. Harris, the present volume covering the period ending with the compromise of 1833; the third revised edition of "The Metallurgy of Gold," by T. Kirke Rose, edited by W. C. Roberts-Austen, which contains a new chapter on economic considerations; the second volume of "Central and South America," dealing with "Central America" and the "West Indies and Guianas," by A. H. Keane.

KNIGHT & MILLET, Boston, have just issued "Studies of Trees in Winter," a description of the deciduous trees of Northeastern America, by Annie Oakes Huntington, with an introduction by Charles S. Sargent, Director of the Arnold Arboretum and author of "The Silva of North America," illustrated with colored plates by Mary A. Morse and photographs by the author. No pains have been spared by the publishers to make this an attractive volume. It is printed in large, clear type, on excellent paper, and it is bound in artistic fashion. The colored plates are reproduced by lithography and the half-tone illustrations are faithful copies of the original photographs.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

AMERICAN BOOK AUCTION SALES IN 1901.*

THE seventh volume of "American Book-Prices Current," covering the auction season of 1900 and 1901, again fills us with admiration of the conscientious, accurate and skilled work put into its 648 pages by its compiler, Mr Luther S. Livingston. To the initiated who know the endless detail of this particular kind of compilation, the improvement from year to year in Mr. Livingston's gigantic undertaking is watched with growing interest. Several little changes of method and order introduced this year would seem to have now made "American Book-Prices Current" perfect as a working tool for auctioneers, collectors and dealers in rare books, as well as satisfying to the most critical of lovers of well-made books.

The auction season of 1900 and 1901 exceeded in importance any previous season, both in number of sales and value of books dispersed. The growth of this particular department of the book business in America is shown in the seven volumes of Mr. Livingston's work. His initial volume for 1895 recorded only 6025 lots; 1896 reached 7411; 1897, 8562; 1898, 7545; 1899, 8859; 1900, 9662, while 1901 advanced to 10,042 lots. These records aim to show all important books and manuscripts selling for over three dollars for the lot. Current books which can still be had of the publishers are generally excluded, and, in cases where "remainders" are being worked off by throwing copies into numerous sales, a selection only is shown.

This year selections have been made from 190 catalogues, comprising some 347 sales on 303 days. These 190 catalogues included only a little over 114,000 lots, of which 10,042 lots are recorded. The increase of 380 over last year in the items recorded is accounted for by the superior quality of the material offered. This is brought about mainly by the sale of three libraries—the McKee Library, the French Library and the Arnold collection, the season not being otherwise remarkable for quality of books included in the numerous sales. We quote from Mr. Livingston's excellent preface some facts regarding these three important collections.

"The season has shown a great increase in auction values of the books which collectors are most ardently seeking. The French and Arnold sales especially broke records on almost every important item. This rise in prices has been most noticeable in the first editions of the greater English and American authors. Another class of books in which there has been a most remarkable increase in price is that including books known as 'presentation' copies. A few years ago the fact that a book contained a presentation inscription would add only a relatively small percentage to its value. Now such a book is likely to be worth five or ten times as much as the same book without inscription."

Three sections of the library of the late Thomas J. McKee were sold. Parts IV. and V. were not sold until after "American Book-Prices Current," 1901, went to press.

"The most important book, indeed the most valuable first edition of American poetry, Poe's 'Tamerlane,' brought $2050. The McKee Library has long been famous for its collection of books by or relating to Poe. Irving's 'History of New York by Diedrich Knickerbocker,' the first edition, New York, 1809, in the original boards, edges uncut, brought $292, a hitherto unheard of price, but authorized on account of condition, this copy being supposed unique in this state. No such collection of American magazines had been offered at auction within recent years. All of those which contained engravings by American artists brought good prices. Mr. McKee was one of the most assiduous collectors of books relating to the stage, and his library included several of the very earliest books on the English stage and original and early editions of English plays, with some later collected editions. The collection of quarto plays was said to be the largest ever offered at auction.

"The McKee First Folio was a poor copy, with eighteen leaves (nine in front and nine at the end) in facsimile. It brought $850. Another Shakespeare item was a set, 8 vols., of the Edinburgh edition of 1771, Robert Burns' copy, with his autograph on the title-page of the first volume. This brought $888.

*LIVINGSTON, Luther S. American book-prices current: a record of books, manuscripts, and autographs sold at auction in New York, Boston, and Philadelphia, from September 1, 1900, to September 1, 1901, with the prices realized. Compiled from the auctioneers' catalogues by Luther S. Livingston. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Company, 1901. 8vo, red buckram, pp. xxii.-626, 600 cop., net, $6.00; 25 copies on large paper, net, $12.50.

"William Harris Arnold paid particular attention to the first editions of American authors, and had brought together the finest collections ever offered at auction of the works of the eight great authors, Bryant, Emerson, Hawthorne, Holmes, Longfellow, Lowell, Thoreau and Whittier. Emerson's autograph manuscript of his 'Threnody' cost Mr. Arnold $26.40 and brought $300; Longfellow's 'Outre Mer,' 1833 and 1834, pts. I, II., first edition, which cost him $60 in 1896 brought $310; and Lowell's 'Commemoration Ode,' 1865, presentation copy, which cost $50 in 1893, sold for $220, at first considered an extravagant price, until a few weeks later a copy in the French sale brought $410. The total of the sale for books which cost $3508.16 was $7363.17. Printing the very handsome catalogue and the auctioneer's commissions of course must be deducted from these remarkable profits. A second sale comprising most of Mr. Arnold's other books contained a long and complete series of first editions of Robert and Mrs. Browning, two very rare Tennysons and a rare Shelley. The first edition of Mrs. Browning's 'Sonnets,' privately printed in 1847, brought $440. This was the first copy of this book ever offered at auction. Mr. Arnold reserved his collection of first editions of Tennyson (probably the finest in private hands in America), but a few of which he had duplicates were included in the catalogue, among them two privately printed plays, 'The Falcon,' 1879, $400, and 'The Promise of May,' 1882, $430.

"Mr. French was a collector along modern lines, and some of his books brought remarkable prices. Grimm's 'Popular Stories,' genuine first edition of each volume in original boards, uncut, brought $600. The first edition of 'The Vicar of Wakefield,' in the original calf, brought $620, which we believe is the record price. Mr. French was a member of the Grolier Club, and had a complete set of their publications, including seven books printed on vellum, of which no more than three are ever made. These excited eager competition, and brought the following prices: 'The Decree of the Star Chamber,' the club's first book, $1600; the 'Rubaiyat,' $1100; the 'Woffington,' $480; the 'Plantin,' $375; the 'Philobiblon,' $825; Matthews' 'Modern Bookbinding,' $900; and 'The Catalogue of Books from the Libraries of Celebrated Bibliophiles,' $650."

It is good news that 600 copies of this year's "American Book-Prices Current" have been printed, enabling 100 more collectors than last year to obtain this very valuable addition to their bibliographical reference library. The feeling which was first expressed against the publication, chiefly by second-hand booksellers, has almost died out. Its great usefulness in stimulating collecting is now recognized. It bears the imprint of Dodd, Mead & Co., one of the largest dealers in rare books, who would hardly publish anything injurious to their specialty. Mr. Livingston, its rarely competent compiler, is also connected with that house.

LIBRARIES AND NET PRICES.

N. Y. State Library, Jan. 3, 1902.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

I have for twenty-five years looked over every number of The Publishers' Weekly and sympathize more fully with the publisher's and bookseller's side of the mooted questions than would be possible to one less familiar with the subject. I believe and constantly preach to my associates in the library profession that there should be intelligent sympathy and co-operation between book trade and libraries rather than that spirit of antagonism which a few librarians have at times seemed to foster. Libraries are growing each year in importance as consumers of books, and publishers must more and more reckon on library orders as the substantial support for new publications.

Most librarians sympathize heartily with the movement to reduce retail prices 20 per cent. and do away with the 20 per cent. discount so generally given by retail booksellers. In our desire to see publishing put on a more satisfactory basis, many of us were willing to lose something of the discounts to which we were entitled and which we have received. We were told that 20 per cent. would be taken from retail price, and with 10 per cent. given to libraries from the net list, small libraries would be getting 28 per cent. instead of the customary 33 per cent. But we have to face the fact that many net books are reduced not 20 per cent., but perhaps 10 per cent. or not at all. Some books which we have bought at 90 cents come to us billed at $1.35 or with 50 per cent. advance. Others cost us 20, 25, and 30 per cent. more than heretofore. The question therefore becomes of serious moment. Hardly a library has half the money it would like to spend for books. When, it pays one-third more than last year it gets three books where it got four, and cripples its usefulness and disappoints its readers to that extent. We are bound as librarians to do the best work possible with public funds placed at our disposal. The careful buyer though he does not get in a bad temper and has no disposition to boycott a publisher even if he feels he has failed to reduce his prices to correspond with the reduced discounts, will yet inevitably buy the books which are free from this objection. Libraries constantly have to choose between a considerable number of desirable additions, whether they are spending large or small amounts. As a result they are now buying old books, completing sets, importing more and sometimes, unconsciously but nevertheless practically, discriminating against net books.

There are certain publications that many libraries must have regardless of price. We pay 5 to 10 cents a mile to certain railways because we can do no better, but we avoid that route in the future if possible. We would pay $5 for certain small books if we could not get them otherwise.

I believe in the net price system, but am convinced that its success demands a different attitude toward libraries. They are making more readers, interesting the public in books and by their influence creating a constituency of book buyers. The nature of their work demands that even the smallest library should have a lower price than is given the ordinary buyer. 10 per cent. may be satisfactory as the minimum, but it is not right to restrict libraries which buy $5000 to $50,000 per year of books to the same discount given to one that buys perhaps less than 1 per cent. as much. We feel that the Publishers' Association should recognize our claim both as large buyers and as libraries and not attempt to bolster up the business of the retail bookseller by imposing a tax on the public library which can so ill afford to bear it.

If individual publishers see fit to price their books much higher than the average, that is a matter wholly for their judgment. We certainly cannot ask that books shall be sold us by the pound. If the price is too high fewer copies will be sold, and this matter will regulate itself; but when the price has been fixed, if the commendable movement to correct an abuse is made the excuse for imposing a burdensome tax on so worthy and popular an institution as the public library, it is doubtful if the result will be beneficial to the book trade. I hope that the growing feeling among librarians that they have a grievance may be allayed by a fair-minded consideration of their claims and by concessions that will remove all just grounds for complaint. MELVIL DEWEY.

PITTSBURGH BOOKSELLERS' AND STATIONERS' ASSOCIATION.

THE regular quarterly meeting of the Pittsburgh Booksellers' and Stationers' Association was held Tuesday evening, January 14, in the Publication Building. The recent action of the Publishers' Association in regard to the price of Fiction caused considerable discussion. The following resolution was presented and passed by unanimous vote:

"Whereas, The American Publishers' Association has fixed a maximum retail discount of 28 per cent. on all fiction published after February 1, 1902;

Resolved, That while we would have desired that the maximum discount to be given to the retail trade be fixed at 20 per cent., we appreciate that the Publishers' Association have taken a big step towards correcting the demoralization in the price of fiction, and we pledge our earnest support to the resolution, and will in every way possible push the publication of the houses that are members of the Publishers' Association."

THE NET PRICE SYSTEM.

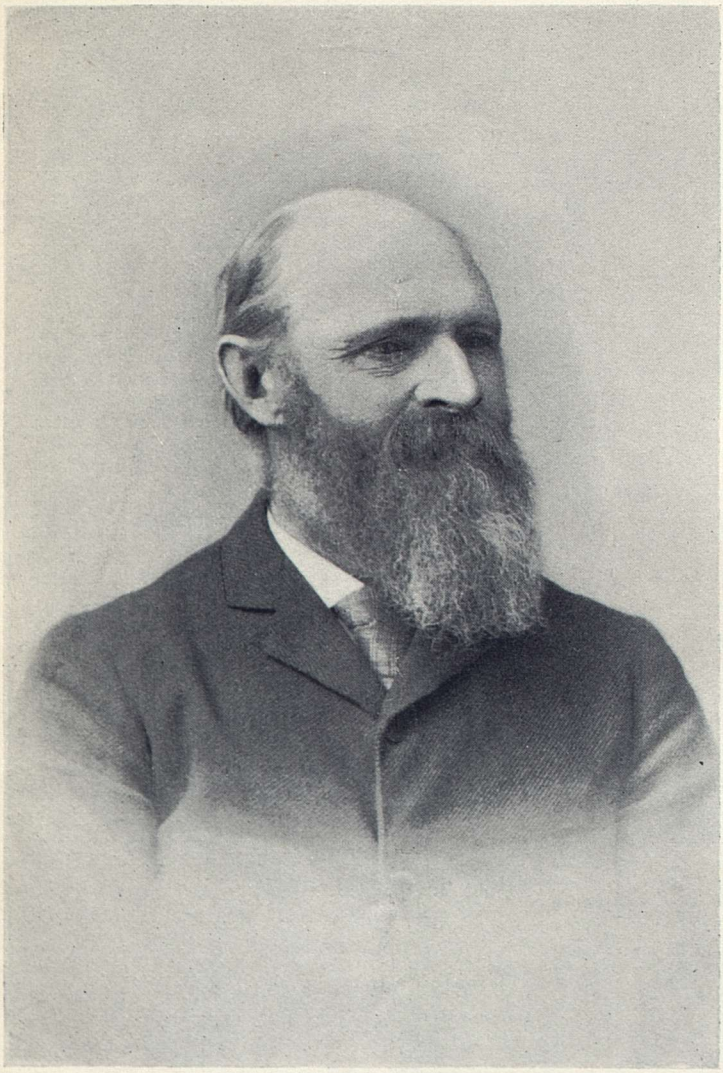
PRIZE QUESTION.

A PRIZE of $10 is offered by The Bookseller, Newsdealer and Stationer for the best letter received before February 8, criticising the system of net prices according to actual experiment during the holiday season. The points to be covered are as follows: Did the net prices help your business or did they not? If they did, why and how? If they did not, why not? How can the system be bettered? The letter must not exceed 2000 words. If requested only pen names will be published, but no letter will be considered unless real name and address is sent.

POSTAL MATTERS.

MONEY ORDERS BETWEEN U. S. AND CHINA.

DIRECT postal money order transactions between the United States and China have been made possible by a recent arrangement of the Post-office Department with Consul-General Goodnow, at Shanghai. Unofficial advices of the new plan have been received at the Seattle, Washington, post-office.



AZARIAH SMITH.

OBITUARY.

AZARIAH SMITH.

THE news of sudden death on the morning of Tuesday, January 14, of Mr. Azariah Smith, of Houghton, Mifflin & Co., will come as a great shock to a large circle of personal and business friends. It will come as a special shock to those who attended the funeral of the late Horace E. Scudder on Monday last and there met Mr. Smith with other representatives of Houghton, Mifflin & Co. apparently in excellent health. One of our own staff on returning from Boston last week reported Mr. Smith looking better and "more like his own old charming self" than he had seemed for years.

Mr. Smith died on the cars while riding in to business from Brookline. He boarded his regular train and was apparently in his usual health. His nephew accompanied him, and when about half-way in town the latter noticed that his uncle had apparently fainted. There was no physician on the train, and no medical attendance could be obtained until the arrival of the train at the South Sation. Mr. Smith was carried to the emergency room and placed on a couch, but the physician said that he died instantly, and that apoplexy was the probable cause of death.

Azariah Smith was the sixth child of a family of ten children born to Samuel and Lucina Smith, at Middlefield, Mass. He was born January 12, 1833, and had just celebrated his sixty-ninth birthday on Sunday last. As a child he lived on the farm at Middlefield conducted by his father. He prepared for college at Williston Seminary, Easthampton, Mass., and at the age of eighteen entered New York Central College at McGrawville, New York, being graduated from that institution in 1855. He was immediately appointed professor of Greek at the college, and continued this line of work until the autumn of 1858. The next few years were passed in Mifflin County, Pennsylvania, partly as instructor in an academy, and partly as superintendent of the schools in the county. During the Civil War Mr. Smith served in the department of Military Telegraph, being stationed at Nashville, Tenn.

In 1866 Mr. Smith came to Boston, associating himself with the firm of Ticknor & Fields, and he has continued with that house and the succeeding firms of Fields, Osgood & Co., James R. Osgood & Co., and Houghton, Mifflin & Co., through thirty-five years as manager of the advertising department. This position, in which he showed marked ability and rare skill in his description and characterization of the multitudinous books issued by the great Boston publishing house, brought him in contact with a wide range of acquaintances, and especially with representatives of the press of the country, who warmly appreciated his sterling qualities and held him in high regard as a scholar and a gentleman. For the last fifteen years Mr. Smith has been one of the trustees of the Roxbury Latin School.

Mr. Smith was married in 1861 to Miss Sophie Elizabeth Van Duzer, of Silver Creek, N. Y. Three children were born of this marriage, two of whom are living—Professor Theodore Clark Smith of the Ohio State University of Columbus, O., and Miss Florence Van Duzer Smith.

It is indeed a blow to Houghton, Mifflin & Co. to lose within a week two men who have for so many years given their best talents, and talents of rare order, to the up-building of their great publishing house on its literary and business sides. Azariah Smith combined the literary and business qualifications to an unusual degree and had above all the even more unusual quality of making himself personally beloved by all who came in contact with him.

HORACE ELISHA SCUDDER.

HORACE E. SCUDDER, also for many years connected with the great publishing house of Houghton, Mifflin & Co., died at his home in Cambridge, Mass., on January 11, after a severe illness of two months' duration. About two weeks ago he was considered out of danger, but on Friday, January 10, he had a relapse, became unconscious and continued in that condition to the end.

Mr. Scudder was born in Boston, October 16, 1838, of an old and honored family which for two generations has been distinguished for intellectual, social, and moral worth. He was one of six brothers, one of whom is Samuel H. Scudder, the assistant librarian of Harvard and a scientific authority in the field of entomology.

Mr. Scudder was a Boston Latin School boy and graduated from Williams College in 1858. After leaving college he spent a short time in travelling, and then for three years taught school in Brooklyn. His brother having died on the threshold of a most promising career as missionary in India, Mr. Scudder wrote his memoir and through his acquaintance with Mr. Houghton had it brought out by the then new firm of Hurd & Houghton, in 1864, under the title "Life and Letters of David Coit Scudder." In 1867 he took charge of the Riverside Magazine for Young People, and when it was discontinued he became a member of the firm of Hurd & Houghton, but retired a few years later from active business to devote himself wholly to literature. For nearly forty years he has done literary work of great excellence for that firm and its successors as author, editor, and compiler.

In 1890 Mr. Scudder became editor of the Atlantic Monthly, succeeding Thomas Bailey Aldrich. He retired from this position in 1898 to give undivided attention to his last great work, "The Biography of James Russell Lowell," which appeared last fall and has been received with acclamation on both sides of the Atlantic. Mr. Scudder was an indefatigable worker and his acknowledged books make a long list. Among them are "Seven Little People and Their Friends;" "Dream Children;" "Life and Letters of David Coit Scudder;" "Stories from My Attic;" "The Dwellers in Five Sisters Court;" Men and Manners in America a Hundred Years Ago;" "Recollections of Samuel Breck;" "Stories and Romances;" and the five "Bodley Books" which are among the very best children's books; "The Book of Fables;" "Men and Letters;" "George Washington," etc. With Marie Hansen-Taylor he edited "The Life and Letters of Bayard Taylor," and he also edited "American Poems" and "American Prose." He was one of the writers on Bryant and Gay's "History of the United States," and on the "Memorial History of Boston," and he published two school histories of the United States.

Mr. Scudder received the degree of Lit.D. from Princeton University on the occasion of its 150th anniversary.

OBITUARY NOTES.

JOHN W. HOTT, D.D., for the last twelve years a bishop of the United Brethren Church and editor of its official journal, died at Dayton, O., on Thursday, January 9. Dr. Hott was the author of "Sacred Hours With Young Christians," "Marvelous Conversion of a Noted Sceptic," Marshall O. Waggoner of Toledo, "Journeyings in the Old World," etc.

PETER VON FINKELSTEIN MAMREOV died on Wednesday, January 8, at his home in Brooklyn, of heart disease. His father was a colonel in the Russian army, who was obliged by political troubles to settle in Jerusalam where Peter was born about forty-seven years ago. Twenty-five years ago he came to the United States with his brother and sister. The brothers lectured upon the Holy Land, and together with their sister wrote a life of Christ, which was published in 1895 under the title "Iesät Nassar."

JOHN HOWARD BRYANT, the only remaining brother of the poet, William Cullen Bryant, and himself a poet in his leisure hours as politician and business man, died at Princeton, Ill., on January 15. He was born in Cummington, Mass., July 22, 1807, and was ninety-four years old, having furnished an example of "plain living and high thinking" to three generations. Mr. Bryant was active in politics during the Abolition days, and was a close personal friend of Abraham Lincoln. He was the author of "Poems," a small volume, (New York, 1855;) "Poems Written from Youth to Old Age," 1824-1884, (printed privately, Princeton, Ill., 1885,) and of several addresses.

ALPHEUS HYATT, assistant Professor of Invertebrate Paleontology at Harvard, fell dead in Harvard Square on January 15. Apoplexy was probably the cause of death. Prof. Hyatt was born in Washington on April 5, 1838. He was educated at Yale and was a graduate of the Lawrence Scientific School, Harvard, in 1862. He received the degree of LL.D. from Brown in 1898. In the Civil War he served as captain, and afterward he was an officer in the Essex Institute and in the Peabody Academy at Salem, Mass. He was also Professor of Zoology and Paleontology in the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Among the societies to which he belonged are the National Academy of Sciences, Geological Society of London, and American Academy of Arts and Sciences. He was the author of "Observations on Fresh Water Polyzoa" and other scientific works, and also of essays on the laws of evolution and several works for teachers.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

THE report recently sent out from London, and published in certain Continental papers, that George Meredith was writing his autobiography, has been denied.

JOHN MORLEY'S "Life of Gladstone," at which that statesman has been at work for the last three years, even before the publication of his "Cromwell," will be published in October.

EDWARD CLODD'S monograph on Huxley, which will be published in Blackwood's Magazine, includes five chapters—"The Man," "The Discoverer," "The Interpreter," "The Controversialist," and "The Constructor."

HENRY SOMERVILLE, the author of "Jack Racer," turns out to be Miss Mary Gay Humphreys, a New York magazine and newspaper contributor. Miss Humphreys is at present working on a second book which will continue the career of "Jack Racer" in the field of Illinois politics.

SWINBURNE is at work on the collected edition of his poetry, the time of publication, however, being indefinite. It is understood that in making the forthcoming collection he has relied more or less upon the judgment of his friend, Mr. Theodore Watts-Dunton, of whose critical acumen there can be little doubt.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

The Edinburgh Review will be one hundred years old next April.

The Forum for January contains an estimate by Brander Matthews of "William D. Howells as a Critic."

CLEMENT K. SHORTER, in his Tatler, announced last week that Literature, published as the literary supplement of the London Times, is for sale.

The World's Work for February contains Rudyard Kipling's latest verses, "The Islanders," which have aroused so much interest in their arraignment of Great Britain's policy and performance in the South African war, and their plea for conscription. The poem has been in part reprinted in the newspapers, but this is its first complete publication in this country.

WE are in receipt of a new quarterly entitled The Trade Press published by L. L. Cline, Detroit, Michigan, which is devoted to the interests of advertisers in trade journals. The first issue gives an interesting article by Henry J. Bohm on "The Trade Press: its field and influence." Advertisers are specially warned to get their advertisements before the trade in good shape and the trade papers are advised to maintain a department in which "copy" is prepared by experts. For a short time the subscription to the Trade Press will be 25 cents a year.

BERT LESTON TAYLOR, of the Chicago Tribune, who has done some delightful fooling in his Biliousline, has just brought out the first number of The Book Booster: a periodical of puff, edited by "Mr. Criticus Flub Dubbe," and published by "Josh, Gosh & Company," in other words, William S. Lord, of Evanston, Ill. The purpose of The Book Booster is to "boost books—our own and others," with the distinction that "the books published by Josh, Gosh & Co. will be boosted without reference to the number of pounds sold, while the publications of other houses will be boosted only when they have passed the dead line, which is 50,000 pounds."

The Christian Herald is offering its subscribers an opportunity to learn stenography, free of cost. Beginning with its issue of January 8, 1902, a lesson will be published twice a month, making the course of thirty lessons extend throughout the year. The Pitman system has been selected as the simplest and most legible, as well as the one most generally used in English-speaking countries, as it is also the oldest, having been devised over sixty years ago by Sir Isaac Pitman. By special arrangement Isaac Pitman & Son, of New York, will conduct these lessons, presenting the new Twentieth Century revision of the Pitman system, so that step by step, the student can acquire the "Correspondence Style" used in law offices and business houses generally.

THE January number of the International Studio, John Lane's monthly magazine of arts and crafts, contains an interesting article on the little-known work of Goya the Spaniard, as a painter; also, the first of a series of articles on the Exhibition of International Arts and Crafts recently held in London, decribing the various notable exhibits, and recording the work of the prize-winners. This exhibition is the first event of what will probably be an annual institution, valuable for its interchange of characteristic national ideas, evolved in the many-sided world of artistic temperament. The New Year Supplement to the International Studio is entitled "Modern Designs in Jewellery and Fans," and is a veritable pictorial museum of the work of the most distinguished modern artists and craftsmen of every nationality, whose genius is devoted to the production of these gems of art.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

The Bulletin of Bibliography for January contains "Bermuda in Periodical Literature," Series 2, pt. 6, by George Watson Cole; a "Reading List in Library Science," by Pratt Institute Free Library; and a "Quarterly Index to Library Reference Lists," by Providence Public Library. This issue also contains the index to volume 2, covering from October, 1899, to January, 1902.

THAT great undertaking "The Jesuit Relations and Allied Documents," edited by R. G. Thwaites and published by the Burrows Brothers Company, has been concluded by the issue of a full index, in two volumes. As an example of index-making this is likely long to stand unrivalled. Every person, place, document or other detail noted in the seventy-one volumes of the Relations is here to be found, compactly and systematically presented. Careful subject schemes for the larger divisions, the indication of all variants in nomenclature, and great exactness in details are its marked features. Its extent may be indicated by the fact that the entries under the heading Jesuits fill 38 pages, Quebec covers nine pages, and under Tobacco there are over a hundred entries. The index is finely printed in single column on a broad clear page, and in appearance and workmanship it is a fitting crown to this notable contribution to American historical literature.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

AMERICA is stated to have bought 20,000 copies of "Sir Richard Calmady."

MCCLURE, PHILLIPS & Co. will publish in this country in book form Dr. A. Conan Doyle's new Sherlock Holmes serial—"The Hound of Baskervilles."

BAKER & TAYLOR Co. announce "The Jew as a Patriot," by Madison C. Peters, which is to be in the nature of an answer to Mark Twain's "Concerning Jews." Over 45,000 copies were sold of Dr. Peters' former book entitled "Justice to the Jew."

GEORGE GISSING has undertaken to condense Forster's "Life of Dickens" and the work could certainly not be in better hands. How thoroughly Gissing appreciates Dickens was shown in his "Charles Dickens: a Critical Study," published by Dodd, Mead & Co. in 1898.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS are reducing their surplus stock during the current month by a special clearance sale of books in fine bindings. They call the attention of collectors and private buyers to the opportunities this sale affords by securing desired volumes at unusually moderate prices.

IT is a custom of the business department of Doubleday, Page & Company to allow their messenger boys to select a book from their publications once a year. Twenty out of fifty-four of this younger generation of readers paid Mr. Duffield Osborne the compliment of choosing "The Lion's Brood."

JOHN LANE will publish in March a new novel by Henry Harland, entitled "The Lady Paramount." This is the first book of Mr. Harland's to appear since "The Cardinal's Snuff Box," and it is said to contain the same charm of sentiment and play of humor that characterized that successful romance.

G. E. STECHERT have brought out in this country "The Cliff Dwellers of the Mesa Verda" (Southwestern California), a book by G. Nordenskiold, first brought out in the English language in Stockholm, Sweden. The book describes the pottery and implements of the California cliff dweller, and is elaborately illustrated.

UNITED SOCIETY OF CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR have just ready "Adventures in Tibet," by William Carey, including a diary of Annie R. Taylor's journey from Tan-Chan to Ta-Chien-Lu through the heart of the "Forbidden Land;" and "Fifty Missionary Programmes," by Belle M. Brain, author of "Fuel for Missionary Fires," etc.

HENRY HOLT & Co. announce a second edition of Dr. Osgood Mason's "Hypnotism and Suggestion in Therapeutics," and a new edition of Champlin's "Cyclopædia of Games and Sports." "Rupert of Hentzau," the sequel to "The Prisoner of Zenda" is selling better than when first published. Anthony Hope's novels are wonderfully successful in German and Spanish translations.

GINN & Co. announce an important series of supplementary readers to be called The Youth's Companion Series, the material for which will be drawn chiefly from The Youth's Companion. The first issue will be "The Wide World" giving a brief, comprehensive survey of child life in Japan, Egypt, Holland, France, Switzerland, Sweden, South America, and Alaska. This is particularly adapted for the sixth and seventh grades.

C. W. BARDEEN has written and published "A Manual of Civics for New York Schools" written in deference to the demand, especially in regents schools, for more of the history and the philosophy of civics than was contained in Northam's "Civil Government," published a quarter of a century ago. The book has an open page indexed by head lines and seems to fully fill its purpose, which is to make good citizens of all graduates from public schools.

JOHN MORLEY has asked G. K. Chesterton to write the volume on "Browning" for the English Men of Letters series. The books thus far arranged for are as follows: "Richardson," by Mr. Austin Dobson; "Crabbe," by Canon Ainger; "Jane Austen," by Prof. Beeching; "Hazlitt," by Mr. Birrell; "Tennyson," by Sir Alfred Lyall; "George Eliot," by Mr. Leslie Stephen; "Matthew Arnold," by Mr. Herbert Paul; "Robert Browning," by Mr. Chesterton.

D. C. HEATH & Co. have just issued special students' editions of Schiller's "Jungfrau von Orleans" and "Marie Stuart," Lessing's "Minna von Barnhelm" and Freytag's "Journalisten," with full vocabularies and notes; and Echegaray's drama "O Locura 'o Santedad," edited by Professors Geddes and Josselyn, of Boston University. They will bring out Renan's "Souvenirs d'enfance et de jeunesse," with introductions and notes by Irving Babbitt; and will add Thackeray's "Rose and the Ring" to their Home and School Classics, and "As You Like It" to the volumes of their Arden Shakespeare Series.

THE BURROWS BROTHERS Co. will shortly publish a work of great importance in its bearing upon the early history and development of this country, in "The American Fur Trade in the Far West;" a detailed and authoritative history of the pioneer trading posts and early fur companies, by Hiram Chittenden Martin. Captain Martin's work, which will appear in three volumes, is based largely upon unpublished records, and is the result of careful study, and thorough knowledge of the subject. It will be illustrated with contemporary prints and a large folding map of the trans-Mississippi country in pioneer days; and it will abound in romantic and adventurous interest, as well as in important historical material.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have nearly ready an important work by Dr. A. C. McGiffert on "The Apostles' Creed: its Origin, its Purpose, and its Historical Interpretation," delivered some two years ago in lecture form and withheld from publication until the position there taken might be fully strengthened and held against criticism. They also announce in their International Theological Library, a careful study of the history and development of "The Ancient Catholic Church," by Dr. Robert Rainy, Principal of New College, Edinburgh, covering the period from the close of the first century down to A.D. 451; a treatise on "Philosophy of Conduct," by Professor George Trumbull Ladd; and the new novel by Miles Amber, called "Wistons," which it was originally intended to publish last autumn.

HARPER & BROTHERS are said to have received nearly 1500 letters in reply to their query regarding the reasons for the popularity of "The Right of Way," addressed to the public through advertisements. Of those replying, 711 said they had heard the book favorably spoken of by friends who had either read it serially or in book form; 468 had seen it advertised or both advertised and reviewed; 114 had read reviews of it; 86 had read something the author had written previously and liked his style; 84 had read the serial themselves, and wanted the book in consequence; 23 replies gave frivolous reasons—"because they had the price," because "a fool and his money are soon parted," because "they were dull and wanted something exciting," because "they wanted something to talk about," because "they read all the new books," "they wanted to be up to date," etc., etc.

FLEMING H. REVELL COMPANY announce for publication February 1, "Centennial Survey of Foreign Missions," by Rev. Dr. Jas. S. Dennis. This will be a statistical supplement to Dr. Dennis' "Christian Missions in Social Progress," being the conspectus of the achievement and results of evangelical missions in all lands at the close of the 19th century. It will give a panoramic view of the progress of Christianity in mission lands during the past century, also the present status of missions carefully tabulated with voluminous historical descriptive comments presenting in outline salient facts, giving a great amount of invaluable information. It will include maps, full indices and a number of beautiful illustrations. Owing to the enormous amount of material, the consequent increased size, and to the number of additional features introduced by the author, it became necessary to advance the price of this work. This advance in price, however, does not even cover the expense of mechanical production.

SMITH, ELDER & Co. will publish shortly, as a defense of the British army, a revised edition of Dr. A. Conan Doyle's "Great Boer Work," for which the author has industriously gathered new material for some months past, and furnished a categorical reply to the charges made by both foreign and native pro-Boers against British soldiers and statesmen in connection with the events in South Africa. The book will be published at sixpence with a margin of profit sufficient to induce the trade to push sales—the author and publishers waiving their rights. Dr. Doyle, who has written twenty-two novels, is purposing to issue shortly a complete edition, leaving out all the work he considers immature, which will reduce the number to fifteen volumes. He began story writing when he was eighteen and continued contributing to magazines of the calibre of Cornhill and Temple Bar for ten years, working all the time at his profession of medicine. Most of his early work appeared anonymously, and Dr. Doyle remembers the late George Augustus Sala referring to a story of his that James Payne had printed in the Cornhill, and saying that although the author's name was not attached the practised novel reader would at once recognize the hand of Robert Louis Stevenson.

THE MACMILLAN Co. announce for publication this spring an array of interesting and notable books in fiction and political economy. Novel readers will await with interest "Dorothy Vernon," a brilliant new romance by Charles Major, the author of "When Knighthood Was in Flower," and Mrs. Gertrude Franklin Atherton's story "The Conqueror," which is based upon the life of Aaron Burr, and is said to be as rich in historical material now first presented as it is in dramatic interest. Owen Wister will follow up his vivid sketches of Western life by a long story, called "The Virginia;" Nancy Huston Banks will have a novel, "Oldfield;" and a romance of modern Chicago by a new writer, James Weber Linn, is announced under the title "The Second Generation." There is a new historical story by Marie Beulah Dix, called "A Little Captive Lad," and the new edition of Thackeray, edited by Walter Jerrold, with illustrations by Broch, portraits and photogravure views, will be forthcoming in thirty volumes. The study of politics, economics and sociology will be enriched by some notable volumes. Benjamin Kidd supplements his work on "The Control of the Tropics," by a scholarly exposition of "The Principles of Western Civilization;" W. A. Dunning has "A History of Political Theories, Ancient and Mediæval;" and M. Ostrogorski's elaborate study of "Democracy and the Organization of Political Parties" has been translated from the French by Frederick Clarke, and furnished with an introduction by James Bryce. Four volumes in the useful Handbooks of American Government series are announced, covering the governments of Ohio, by W. H. Siebert; Michigan, by Webster Cook; Maine, by William MacDonald; and New York, by W. C. Morey. Other announcements include "The Genesis of Modern Constitutions," by James Harvey Robinson; "The Theory of Prosperity," by Simon N. Patten; "A History of the Appointing Power," by Lucy M. Salmon; the third volume of Nicholson's "Principles of Political Economy;" and that indispensable annual "The Statesman's Year Book;" while among the new volumes in the Citizens' Library of Economics, Politics and Sociology will be "Custom and Competition," by R. T. Ely; "American Municipal Progress," by Charles Zueblin; "Colonial Government," by Paul S. Reinsch; and "Democracy and Social Ethics," by Jane Addams.

BUSINESS NOTES.

ALLENTOWN, PA.—John C. Diehl has removed his book and stationery store to North Second Street.

ATLANTA, GA.—The Southern book business of D. Appleton & Co. has been purchased by a new corporation which has been chartered in the State of New York as the Atlanta Press. The new company took charge of the Appletons business in the nine Southern Southern States January 1. The Atlanta Press will carry on the same business which has been conducted by the Appletons in the South, and will assume the good will of the Appletons in this territory. Atlanta is to be the head office of the company, while branch offices will be established in New Orleans, Memphis and other Southern cities. F. P. Gamble, the former Southern manager of the Appleton Company, is the president of the new concern; Robert Appleton, of New York, vice-president; H. T. Rodman, of New York, treasurer, and H. F. Ballantyers, of New York, secretary. Robert Appleton, the vice-president, is well known in New Orleans, having been located in that territory for D. Appleton & Co. in former years, making a record for good work.

BOSTON, MASS.—Ginn & Co. announce the opening of their new offices at 29 Beacon Street, the site of the John Hancock House, where they will be pleased to see all their old friends.

BOSTON, MASS.—Notice is hereby given that the adjourned first meeting and the final meeting of creditors of Francis W. Bird will be held at a Court of Bankruptcy, at Room 121, Post-office Building, in Boston, on the twenty-third day of January, A.D. 1902, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, at which time and place creditors may attend, prove their claims, conclude the examination of the bankrupt, and show cause why the final report of the trustee now on file for examination should not be passed upon and the affairs of said estate closed. LEWIS G. FARMER, Referee in Bankruptcy.

GALESBURG, ILL.—Kimble Bros. have just started a business in foreign books and periodicals, scientific publications, etc., and intend to do all that hard and systematic work can do to build up a successful book business.

KEY WEST, FLA.—The Key West News Company has removed to larger and more convenient quarters.

MALDEN, MASS.—Arthur Lansil has opened a bookstore at 36 Bromfield Street.

MANCHESTER, N. H.—John P. Brown has bought Arthur J. Gingras's news store.

NEW HAVEN, CONN.—Articles of incorporation have been filed by the Pease-Lewis Corporation of New Haven, Conn., with a capital of $3000. The Pease book and newspaper store is one of the oldest and best known in its line in the State. Mr. Robert Hart Lewis, who becomes a member of the new corporation, has been associated with the business of the T. H. Pease & Son store for several months, and was formerly for years with the E. P. Judd Company's book store. The change is consequent on the retiring of Mr. Salmon G. Pease from the business with which he has been actively associated since his father established it in 1842.

TOLEDO, O.—The printing and engraving plant of The Franklin Printing and Engraving Co., 310 Superior St., was destroyed by fire on January 4. They have secured temporary quarters and all arrangements for rebuilding have been completed.

WEST SUPERIOR, WIS.—Russell Bros., booksellers and stationers, have enlarged their store by annexing the adjoining one and their address is now 1128-1130 Tower Avenue. They have just established a first-class circulating library of new copyright books. They would be glad of catalogues, etc., from novelty dealers.

For 1902
PUBLISHERS' TRADE LIST ANNUAL
(Thirtieth Year)

In response to the desires of the book trade we shall publish the forthcoming issue of THE PUBLISHERS' TRADE LIST ANNUAL, to be ready at the opening of the active Fall season, in August, 1902, to the publishers' catalogues contained therein. The books will be indexed by author, title and, practically, by subject or class. The name of series, the price, and name of publisher will also be given, so that any book contained in the ANNUAL may be located at once by whatsoever clue the user may have. The Index will be printed in two columns to the page, in readable type, full face letters being used to make reference to authors' names more convenient.

With a Complete Index

The bulk of the volume, as heretofore, will consist of the latest CATALOGUES OF AMERICAN PUBLISHERS, contributed by themselves and arranged alphabetically by the firm names, with the smaller lists and advertisements of single books at the end. The patent "Duplex Index," having the alphabet printed on the concave surface as well as on the margin of the page, enables instantaneous reference to the catalogues and the lists, whether the book is open or shut.

These lists, thus bound together, present in their combination so convenient and time-saving a working tool as to have made THE TRADE LIST ANNUAL for upwards of a quarter of a century indispensable to every one who has any interest in the purchase or sale of books. With the reference index to the books listed in the publishers' catalogues its practical usefulness will be enhanced an hundred fold.

The work will be offered to the trade in two styles :

With the Index, ... $5 00
Without the Index, ... 1 50

if ordered and paid for in advance of publication. Orders, stating whether the volume is desired with or without the index, should be registered at

The Office of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY
(P. O. Box 943) 298 Broadway, New York

☞We shall also supply the new volume of the ENGLISH REFERENCE LIST for which we control the American market. Further particulars as to price will be given later.

THE METHODS OF LADY WALDERHURST

By FRANCES HODGSON BURNETT

Author of "The Making of a Marchioness," "Little Lord Fauntleroy," and "A Lady of Quality."

"The Methods of Lady Walderhurst" is a delightful story which combines the sweetness and simplicity of "The Making of a Marchioness" with the dramatic qualities of "A Lady of Quality."

Lady Walderhurst is one of the most charming characters in modern fiction.

The plot hinges a good deal upon the laws of primogeniture as they exist in England, and the evils that sometimes come from them. It is a thrilling story, and the reader who starts the book can never lay it down until finished.

Beautifully manufactured, with illustrations by C. D. WILLIAMS, with initial letters, tail-pieces, decorative borders, etc.

WOLFVILLE DAYS

By ALFRED HENRY LEWIS

Author of "Wolfville," "Sandburrs," etc.

"Wolfville" was probably the most successful book of Western stories published since the early works of Bret Harte. The scenes and people of the Southwestern Frontier are pictured with a vividness and truth never surpassed, if ever equalled.

Mr. Lewis' stories are full of humor, but with occasional touches of pathos, and they make most delightful reading.

With a frontispiece by FREDERIC REMINGTON.

12mo, cloth, $1.50.

THE GIANT'S GATE

By MAX PEMBERTON

Author of "The Impenetrable City," "Pro Patria," etc.

Tho scenes of this powerful novel are laid in France and England of to-day. In a wonderfully realistic manner it unrolls before the reader a panorama of modern Paris. The actors in this marvellous drama are fair women and brave men, councillors and presidents, labor unions, and the generals of France, and ruling them all the omnipotent power of the people.

12mo, cloth, illustrated, $1.50.

Hester Blair

By WILLIAM HENRY CARSON

ATTRACTIVELY BOUND IN SILK CLOTH.
ILLUSTRATIONS BY C. H. STEPHENS. Price, $1.50

HESTER BLAIR is a sweet and lovable character, though a strange one. Her odd career, with a triple love entanglement, is sure to hold the reader's attention very closely from the first to the last page.

KEEP this title well in mind. It's going to be one of the 6 best sellers at the first jump, just as

BLENNERHASSETT

were. Both these books continue in big demand.
